"Développant un questionnement sur la nature de l'art, je présente l'acte artistique comme cadrage – restriction de la vision, tant que mise en valeur d'un point de vue. La métaphore de la peinture comme fenêtre ouverte sur le monde est le point de départ de ma réflexion. Ici intervient la perspective qui place l'observateur au point précis où se tient l'artiste."

LORI HERSBERGER was born in 1964 in Basel, Switzerland. He lives and works in Zurich. Lori studied Video Art and Sculpture at the Basel School of Art and Design. At the beginning of the 1990s he started creating environments and installations, initially combined with video, later with different kinds of media like mirror glass, painting with fluorescent paint, neon light, and chrome steel. He quickly devoted himself to a wide spectrum of different, seemingly incompatible media and subject matter. His works are characterized by a direct artistic language and, while many trigger a strong affirmative impression, subversive potential. In different installations, as well as in his painting and sculptures, he takes up a range of topics such as hybrid emotionalism and the twofold semantic nature of phenomena such as the phantom-like. Lori Hersberger's art stresses the opposition between the world of illusion and that of reality, yet at the same time alludes to the space between them. In this sense, his works are both sublime and grotesque – a combination that is also clearly expressed in his current exhibitions. In 2020 the artist has co-founded the Kunsthalle 8000 in Wädenswil. Lori Hersberger has received numerous awards, including the Swiss Art Awards (1999 and 2000) and the Manor Art Prize Basel (2001). His works have been shown at many institutions and museums, among them the MAC Museum of Contemporary Art in Lyon, where in 2008 he presented in his largest solo exhibition to date, entitled Lori Hersberger - Phantom Studies, deformed steel sculptures as well as extensive installations with neon light and mirror glass, or in other solo shows at, among others, Kunsthau Zürich in 2003. In addition, he has exhibited at venues such as Museum für Gegenwartskunst in Basel, the MMKK Museum for Modern Art of Carinthia in Klagenfurt, at Kunsthalle Giessen, Kunsthalle Basel, and the Swiss Institute in New York. Larger installations were shown as part of thematic exhibitions at the 48th Venice Biennial, at Kunsthalle Vienna, at the ZKM Museum of Contemporary Art in Karlsruhe, at the SMAK Stedelijk Museum of Contemporary Art in Ghent, the Lucerne Museum of Art, and the Art Museum in St. Gallen.
